Fire and Ice

REDUCING THE RISK OF WINTER BURNING

Holdover fires often start during the fall and winter months as a result of improperly extinguished fires. These fires smoulder underground for a number of months and come to the surface in the spring as a wildfire after the snow pack has melted and fuel such as dry grass and wood becomes more abundant.

To avoid accidentally starting a holdover fire, it's important to make sure any winter burning is completely extinguished. To properly extinguish a fire, completely soak the area with water, stir up the ashes and soak the area again. Checking your winter burn sites early in the spring for any hot spots will also help reduce the risk. Alberta Sustainable Resource Development is committed to working with Albertans to reduce the number of human-caused wildfire. About 50 per cent of wildfires in Alberta are caused by human activity...it's important we all do our part to help prevent wildfires and protect our forests.
